- He was employed in Sep 1961. Sandy's uncle (Bill Daniels) got Gene a job at Hogan Equipment on Harrisburg Dr. in Houston. His job was to sweep and clean up the shop. He would help the tech's when they need help and learned how to repair the forklifts. He was a fast learner. He knew a little about mechanics that he learned from Ben who taught him mechanical skills. Uncle Bill would come and pick him up every day take him to work and bring him home.
- He was employed from 1965 to 1975. He worked at Armor Meatpacking as a truck mechanic, then transferred to plant maintenance when Armor outsourced their trucking.
- He had a residence in 1972 in Spring, Harris, Texas, United States. Moved there.
- He had a residence in 1982 in Brenham, Washington, Texas, United States. Gene, Sandy Tammy & Debby moved to Brenham, TX, Gene's employer, Occidental Western Oil and Transportation, moved their shop out of the Houston area. They purchased a house on June 22, 1982 and moved in September 18, 1982. They rented the house out for 2 months to the sellers. They had previously looked there and hoped some day we could live in Brenham. They loved living in Brenham.

Gene's parents were so against him marrying Sandy, they got him fired from his job and even refused to sigh for his marriage, hoping that they would not get married. They did not speak to Gene for almost a year, it was not until their first grandson Thomas was born that they began to speak to Gene.

Gene grew up in the Heights area of Houston on 26th street. He attended St. Pius parochial school until he dropped out at age 17. His parents pushed him to become a priest, which he was not interested in doing. As a teen, he wore a ducktail hairstyle and had a record collection of the Platters.

When he was 15, he began working at the Kallus Egg Company where he performed egg quality checks on the packaging line. He also helped Mr. Kallus drive the truck to Kansas to get eggs and bring them back to Texas. This was his first real job. He was later let go because his parents did not like Sandy (his future wife) and Mr. Kallus was their friend. His parents hoped that if Gene lost his job, he would not marry Sandy and had already arranged for him to marry a girl that they chose. He was not interested in this arranged marriage.

In 1960, his parents owned a 1949 Mercury that he liked and would 'borrow' on occasion to go riding around with his friends. His parents decided to get a new Edsel. He attempted to purchase the Mercury from them, but his parents did not sell it to him, instead they traded it towards the Edsel. He then went to the car dealership and purchased the Mercury (for less money than they got in trade for the car).

Early September of 1960, Gene was driving down Key street, the street Sandy lived on. Sandy was walking to a friend's house and he stopped his car and asked if she knew someone he was looking for, a friend of his that owed him money thinking that he lived in the neighborhood, but she did not know his friend. Sandy does not know why she walked right up to his car, but she did. After that he drove by her house often and they started dating. Their first date was to a movie in downtown Houston at the Majestic Theater. Gene's parents did not want him to associate with Sandy since she was not the girl his parents had picked and she was not a Catholic girl (she was Baptist), his parents did not approve of her. They did not want Gene to marry her much less date her.

Early November 1960, Gene wrecked his '49 Merc. He picked up 3 friends every day and they all went to school together. He was the only one with a car. One day he was on his way to take his friends to school and someone backed out in front of him and he could not stop in time.

Late November, being frustrated with his parents' attitude towards Sandy, Gene and Sandy ran away. They got on a bus and went to California. They were put on the police runaway list and one report came in that Sandy was seen in Virginia, which was not correct. They were found in Bakersfield, California and picked up and taken to juvenile hall for 3 days where they could not see each other. Sandy was in isolation and Gene had to do cleaning work. On Thanksgiving Day, they were allowed to eat dinner together in the mess hall. Sandy sat on the guys side of the room. Sandy's father (Ben) talked to both on separate calls and said if they would come back home and stay, he would pay the bus fare. Gene's dad would not pay anything. When Gene and Sandy got home from California, his parents did not want him there if he was going to be with Sandy, but his parents said if Sandy took catechism to become a catholic, they would sign for Gene to get married and Sandy's dad said he would also sign for her to get married. On the day that they were to pick up the papers so we could get married in the church his father had gone to city hall and removed his signature so they could not get married. Gene was really mad and that was when he moved out of his parent's home. He got an apartment near Buffalo bayou and Studemont before he and Sandy got married.

December, his soon-to-be father-in-law (Ben) had reposed a car he gave it to Gene so he could get to work. Despite the wishes of Gene's parents, he and Sandy were married Jan 21, 1961. With financial help from Sandy's father (Ben), Gene and Sandy moved to a garage apartment on Crosstimbers and Fulton in February. Gene did what he could to make money but did not have much. Ben brought them groceries and gave a little money every week. He was 17 and Sandy was 15.

In March, Gene got a job working construction on the I-45 Pierce Elevated. He was afraid of heights and when he almost fell from a beam carrying materials, he had to leave that job. He was still working there when they moved into the duplex. They lived in a duplex while Sandy was pregnant with their son. They did not live there long because the rats were bad, they would open the screen door to go out and open it again to come back in.

later

Early 1960s - His father-in-law (Ben) taught him how to saltwater fish, they would fish often in the Galveston bays. Ben had a 14' Chris Craft boat and was ready to camp and fish anytime. On one occasion Ben, Sandy and Gene went to West Bay and Ben caught a Redfish and had it in the live well. Gene was new to fishing and had not seen a big fish up close before, so it took it out of the well to examine it and the fish flopped back into the bay. Ben never let Gene forget that event.

From 1965-1975, the family took annual vacations by car to many places, mostly without a specific agenda. There were trips to Illinois to visit Sandy's grandmother (Fannie), Colorado, Florida, west Texas, south Texas, Monterey, Mexico, Tennessee and more. Camping and fishing trips to the local lakes, rivers and gulf were frequent.

Gene and Sandy bought a freshwater boat and learned how to freshwater fish and fished in local lakes often. They were members of a local Bass fishing club and would compete in tournaments all over Texas. Sandy learned how to pull the boat and get it in the water. She would often take the boat out alone in the day. The shop where Gene worked was between their house and Lake Somerville so when Gene got off work, he would come to Lake Somerville and they would fish the lake until dark. This went on until Gene died. Gene and Sandy continued to take trips to various places: They visited TJ in Biloxi, Ms. and Sumpter Sc., when he was stationed at those places with the U.S. Air Force. They also went to Dollywood, the Shiner brewery and even a Louisiana hayride.
