

Expect him to know what to do. To go about it quietly, with dignity and efficiency. To counsel. To reassure. To be a center of calm. This is the most immediate role of your funeral director and you have every right to expect it from him. Often, in the first trying hours following a loss in the family, there is no one present who is equipped by experience to take charge, to make all the necessary arrangements. That's when the funeral director is needed most. All of us who serve you here at Walter Wright, owner-manager of Forest Hill Funeral Home, has been serving families for 30 years. A native of southeast Texas he makes Conroe his home. He is a member of the Methodist Church in Conroe.

WALTER WRIGHT DISCUSSES WHAT YOU SHOULD EXPECT FROM YOUR FUNERAL DIRECTOR

We not only welcome but encourage your questions regarding costs or any other aspect of our service. Regardless which funeral service you select, you are entitled to complete dignity and quality in every respect. You should expect this assurance from your funeral director. You can expect it from us at Forest Hill. Protestant, Catholic, Jewish, whatever your faith may be, you should expect complete respect for your religious beliefs and customs.

Forest Hill are trained by education and experience to know exactly what needs to be done and how to get it done in the manner most pleasing to everyone concerned. One telephone call is all it takes to place the entire range of our facilities, our background and experience at your instant command. You should expect your funeral director to be completely open and frank with you regarding costs. That's why we have made it a policy to mark all prices plainly in our selection rooms. These costs, based on the type of casket selected, represent the complete cost of the funeral service.

At Forest Hill we go a step further, making special provisions for the traditions of the people we serve. And, of course, we offer full cooperation to clergymen of all denominations in order to preserve the meaningful qualities of the funeral service as a religious rite. Complete responsibility for arrangements, full disclosure of costs, assurance of dignity and quality, respect for your religious beliefs and customs. These are the obligations of any funeral director who has accepted your trust. Expect them regardless of whom you choose.

Wright's
FOREST HILL
FUNERAL HOME

1907 N. Frazier

Conroe, Texas 77301